

CURRICULUM VITAE

ANTONELLA PICCHIO [picchio.antonella@unimore.it]

Antonella Picchio: M. A. in Economics at the Utah State University (USA); B. A. in Political Sciences at the University of Padova (Italy); M. Phil in Economics at the University of York (GB); Ph. D. at the Faculty of Economics and Politics, Cambridge (GB). She is Associate Professor of History of Economics Thought at the Department of Economia Politica, University of Modena (Italy), where she teaches History of Economic Thought, Human Development, Gender Economics (present year) and Macroeconomics (former years). At the University of Roma Tre she has taught History of Economic Thought (1996-99) and History of Economic Thought of Labour Supply, at the New School of Social Research in New York (1994- spring term). She worked as /at the Advisory Board of the Journal of Human Development (UNDP), as /at the Edit. Board of feminist Economics, and as /at the referee for Routledge, Cambridge University Press.

References

PICCHIO A. (2004), Hay, carrots, bread and roses: subsistence and surplus wages in S raffa's Archive Papers, in A. PICCHIO, R. CICCONE, MONGIOVI, S raffa and Modern Economics. London, Routledge (forthcoming).

I D. (2003), A macroeconomic approach to an 'extended' standard of living, in A. PICCHIO, Unpaid work and the economy: a gender analysis of the standards of living, vol. 1 London, Routledge, pp. 11-28.

I D. (2000), Wages as a reflection of production and reproduction processes, in L. Clarke, J. Janssen, The dynamics of wage relations in the New Europe, vol. 1, Amsterdam, Kluwer Academic Press, pp. 195-214.

I D. (1996), The Analytical and Political Visibility of the Work of Social Reproduction, Human Development Report Background Papers, vol. 1.

I D. (1992), Social Reproduction: the Political Economy of the Labour Market, vol. 1, Cambridge, Cambridge University Press.